Course Description

This course is designed to encourage the coach to think about the various elements of successful coaching beyond simply the skill requirements of their respective sport. In addition, the coaching profession requires the coach to function effectively as an administrator, leader, and psychologist. The ability to successfully organize, lead, motivate, relate, and evaluate is foundational to the coach within the profession. The activities of this course are designed to better acquaint and refine within the coaching individual those elements and skills beyond simply the teaching and knowledge of sport fundamentals. All course materials are included on the course website in downloadable files and websites. These include a set of selected readings plus complete descriptions of accompanying assignments and activities. Printed reading materials from ProActive Coaching LLC will need to be purchased. Most people who go into coaching have a solid foundation for the physical skills required for their particular sport. Successful coaching involves much more than this. The purpose of this course is to assist the coach in their professional development relative to the overall requirements necessary for the coaching profession.

Course Requirements and Schedule of Topics and Assignments
In addition to the SHAPE, NSSC, and NBPTS standards mentioned in the STANDARDS-BASED INSTRUCTION section, the following assignments strongly support the California State Board of Education Physical Education Framework related to Character Development.

Education has for its object the formation of character."
- Herbert Spencer
The Physical Education Framework seeks to strengthen character with "a sequential, developmental, age-appropriate physical education program designed to provide students with the knowledge and ability needed to maintain an active, healthy lifestyle. The framework places a strong emphasis on maintaining a positive self-image and helps students strive to become the best that they can be through planned physical activities. In the area of social development, the framework advocates "students develop appropriate social behaviors by working independently and with others during planned activities.

This course is comprised of the following possible activities. Please complete your selected assignments in the order presented below:

1. ANALYSIS-REACTION PAPERS – Select reading assignments from text sources relative to each area. Each reading will focus on a specific, practical subtopic typically encountered within the athletic coaching world relative to issues of character building through sport. Each subtopic will be developed with an emphasis on real world analyses and application of current sport psychology/coaching literature.

   a. 3 required readings from the list provided. Each selected reading will be responded to via a 2 page "Analysis-Reaction" paper. Each A-R paper will include a summary and application-based reaction to a topic related to coaching.

   b. 7 selected readings from the list provided. Each selected reading will be responded to via a 2 page "Analysis-Reaction" paper. Each A-R paper will include a summary and application-based reaction to a topic related to coaching.

Upon completion of the readings and Analysis-Reaction papers, the student will select three exercises from the following choices:

After completion of the selected readings and corresponding Analysis-Reaction papers, the student may select and complete any two of the following activities

1. JOURNAL - Maintenance of a journal for 10 days of observing team practices, competitions, and/or other direct team experiences and interactions. This can be with your own team or someone else's team. Please, as a matter of protocol, be sure to seek a coach's permission prior to observing/studying his/her team if you plan to not use your own team.

   a) Minimum daily entry length will be approximately 1 page. Please type, if possible, though not required. The student is encouraged to use a word processor in order to allow for additional editing if desired at a later date.

   b) Journal entries must be limited to topics relevant to the specific topic of character.

   c) Observation days need NOT be consecutive.

   d) Reference to selected readings will be encouraged within the text of your journal entries. References, if used, must include the author's name, book/journal title,
"Good coaches understand the game. Great coaches understand the game and their athletes and how to teach both." Bruce Brown

2. Philosophy of Coaching - One of the most important things which you will ever do as a coach will be to develop an effective philosophy of coaching which will serve as your primary guideline throughout your career. This philosophy will be the greatest single influence on you as you determine the direction of your program both for the short term as well as the long term. By articulating and synthesizing your philosophy in writing, this exercise will serve to help you crystallize your coaching philosophy. The writer is strongly encouraged to develop a philosophy of coaching which is compatible with their personality and ability strengths. Any profession is full of desirable role models. The coaching profession is no exception. REMEMBER - try to learn from the best, but do it within the parameters of your own personality and circumstances. Do not try to be someone you're not.

Procedure for writing your Philosophy of Coaching

You, the coach are to formulate 10 questions. Examples of question areas are below. You may formulate questions from any or all of the below areas, or formulate your own.

- The role of athletics in an educational institution.
- The purpose of athletics in general.
- The justification for the existence of organized athletics.
- Your perception of what the goals of your athletes should be in athletics.
- The degree of emphasis on winning and losing.
- Your responsibilities as a coach.
- Your personal goals as a coach.
- The relationship between you and your athletes.
- Methods of motivation and communication with athletes.
- Discipline.
- Your philosophy of playing time for each athlete.
- Your philosophy of playing time as it relates to injuries.
- Your philosophy of practice, and games.
- Steroids and other drugs.
- Player conduct in school and during athletic events.
• Your relationship with parents, boosters, other coaches of other sports, school support personnel, and administrators.
• In-season philosophies compared with off-season philosophies.

From the set of questions you have selected or formulated, write a 5 page Philosophy of Coaching paper expressing your own philosophy of coaching as it relates to you as a professional.

3. COACH INTERVIEW - Interview a coach who has been coaching at least 5 years. Attempt to locate a coach whom you feel has been successful. Analyze the coach’s responses to your questions in light of the readings you have done for this course on the fundamentals of coaching. Observe the coach in action for at least 1 practice session or game. Since many coaches do not have an accurate perception of their practice or game behaviors, see if any inconsistencies exist between the coach’s self-perceptions of behavior as indicated from their interview, and their observed behavior in a practice or game setting. Also, identify the coach’s strengths in terms of how you perceive their philosophy of coaching.

Develop a list of 10 questions related to the fundamentals and principles of coaching. Ask the coach each of these 10 questions (as appropriate) from three different perspectives: 1) When they first were an athlete, 2) When they first started coaching, and 3) now as a more experienced coach.

Examples:
1. How important a role does the coach play in developing leadership in their athletes?
2. What techniques are the most effective in developing leadership in their athletes?
3. What techniques are the most effective in developing team cohesion in their athletes?
4. How important is team cohesion to the success of your team?
5. What are the most important characteristics of a great team leader?

Based on the coach’s answers to the 10 questions you formulated for the interview, plus your own observations of the interviewed coach in action, write a 2-3 page summary of your findings and insights.

"Sport does not provide us with many answers to the issues of life, but rather provides us with one of the richest fields for asking the questions."  Drew Hyland

4. PRACTICE PLAN PREPARATION - In the following pdf-web article there is an excellent discussion on the development of effective practice drills and plans.

‘Insights on Practice Planning and Organization’ by Agcaoili

Utilizing these guidelines, develop practice plans for any two of the three types of practice plans for a sport of your choice. These two practice plans should be designed for any two of the following three situations, respectively:
Preseason practice (two weeks before your first regular season contest).
Midseason practice (day before an important contest).
Mid or post season practice (two days before a major contest).

NOTE: No practice should be longer than 2 1/2 hours long.

For EACH practice plan, include:

- The practice plan itself, written up as you would have it available to use for your own practice. (1-page maximum) It is strongly suggested that the coach develop a daily practice plan form on which he/she can write each daily plan. See example in the article.
- The general theme/objective/emphasis of the day’s practice.
- An explanation of why you designed each drill/element for your practice the way you did. (1-page maximum)

5. QUALITIES OF A COACH - Just as most coaches find it easy to list the desirable qualities of their ideal student-athlete, an honest self-assessment of your own perceived qualities as a coach, set alongside your list of desirable qualities of a coach can be a valuable exercise from which to develop strategies of coaching improvement. Below are a set of simple exercises designed to serve as vehicles by which the coaching can begin to better understand his/herself within the context of the coaching profession. These exercises are designed to serve as catalysts for coaching staff discussions re. developing common/compatible philosophies and working relationships going into the upcoming season.

For each of the following exercises, please do the following:

Qualities of a Coach Exercise

1) Have yourself and/or each coach on the staff list 10 qualities of their concept of the ideal head coach and ideal assistant coach. Individually, or as a group, share (if appropriate) and discuss these lists with each other in light of your own perceptions of yourself, and each other. You may even want to develop personal and coaching staff strategies for change and personal improvement.

2) Write a one page reflection of your experience from this exercise.

Worst and Best Moment in Coaching Exercise

1) Have each coach on your staff briefly describe to the group of coaches in two minutes or less their two worst moments in coaching, and their two best moments in coaching. These descriptions are to be of very specific incidents, or situations which they actually experienced themselves. From these descriptions, begin to discuss with the coach why
The following content standards listed by the Society of Health and Physical Educators SHAPE are addressed throughout this course. Specific standards are identified with various assignments presented in the course materials.

SHAPE appointed the Outcomes Committee to answer the question, "What should students know and be able to do?" The Outcomes Project culminated in the development of a definition of the physically educated person. This definition included five major focus areas:

- Has learned skills necessary to perform a variety of physical activities
- Is physically fit
- Does participate regularly in physical activity
- Knows the implications of and the benefits from involvement in physical activities
- Values physical activity and its contribution to a healthy lifestyle

"Education has for its object the formation of character."
- Herbert Spencer

The Physical Education Framework seeks to strengthen character with "a sequential, developmental, age-appropriate physical education program designed to provide students with the knowledge and ability needed to maintain an active, healthy lifestyle. best that they can be through planned physical activities. In the area of social development, the framework advocates "students develop appropriate social behaviors by working independently and with others during planned activities.

Student Learning Objectives / Outcomes (SLO)

The athletic coach and/or scholar will engage in the following learning outcomes in a manner consistent with Standards 5 and 6 as prescribed by the SHAPE. The following prescribed domains and associated standards from the National Standards for Sport Coaches (NSSC) are also reflected in the following SLO’s (NSSC Domain 1 - Standards 1-4; Domain 4 – Standards 16-18; Domain 5 – Standards 19-26):

1) The athletic coach and/or scholar will analyze and apply correct principles of team and practice organization within the competitive sport context.

2) The learner will identify and analyze crucial factors involving a sound psychological approach to the study of teaching in sport.

3) The learner will identify and analyze the elements of effective leadership relative to the success for the participant.

4) The learner will identify and analyze the impact in terms of lifestyle unique to the coach, his/her family, and significant others.

5) The learner will develop an understanding of desirable qualities of a successful head coach and assistant coach.

6) The athletic coach and/or scholar will analyze and identify the complex ethical considerations relative to the coaching profession.

Evidence of Learning

This section describes what the instructor will be looking for in the student’s work to determine whether or not they achieved the course objectives.
