Course Description

- Periodization training is a year-round conditioning program structured into phases to meet sport-specific goals. It is based on the principle that by varying the timing and intensity of the workouts, the greatest gains in strength, speed, power, and endurance can be achieved. This course is designed to teach the high school coach or teacher how periodization works, why it is used, and how to integrate it into a comprehensive training program. This course is also useful for designing sport-specific programs to assist the student athletes in reaching their personal conditioning goals. It not only explains how to properly apply the concept of periodization, but also illustrates specific exercises to use within the periodization program to improve athletic performance. This course includes hundreds of illustrations, tables, photos, and tools to create both short- and long-term workouts for over 30 sports, tailored to the functional needs of each sport.
- Course assignments encourage participants to integrate specific national standards for physical education. Objectives for each lesson are modeled around standards-based learning as identified by SHAPE America. Evidence of learning is tied directly to stated objectives and is assessed via analysis and application papers, training programs, testing programs, reflective evaluations and peer learning. The course is designed for teachers and coaches of 7th through 14th grade students.

Required Course Materials

- Textbook: Bompa, T. O. & Buzzichelli, C. A. (2015). Periodization Training for Sports (3rd ed.). Champaign, IL: Human Kinetics is the course textbook. Students are expected to thoroughly read this book and will be asked to analyze the content and apply the suggested techniques to a sport or physical education situation.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

“Standards are an enduring commitment, not a passing fancy.”

-California State Board of Education

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS) (www.nbpts.org)

NBPTS was created in 1987 after the Carnegie Forum on Education and the Economy’s Task Force on Teaching as a Profession released A Nation Prepared: Teachers for the 21st Century. The five core propositions form the foundation and frame the rich amalgam of knowledge, skills, dispositions and beliefs that characterize National Board Certified Teachers (NBCTs). Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Teachers are members of learning communities

National Physical Education Standards by SHAPE America (www.shapeamerica.org/standards/pe/index.cfm)

The following content standards defined by SHAPE America specify what students should know and be able to do as result of a quality physical education program. States and local school districts across the country use the National Standards to develop or revise existing standards, frameworks and curricula. Participants are asked to apply these standards in their teaching practices and demonstrate them within their coursework.

SHAPE 1 - The physically literate individual demonstrates competency in a variety of motor skills and movement patterns.

SHAPE 2 - The physically literate individual applies knowledge of concepts, principles, strategies and tactics related to movement and performance.

SHAPE 3 - The physically literate individual demonstrates the knowledge and skills to achieve and maintain a health-enhancing level of physical activity and fitness.

SHAPE 4 - The physically literate individual exhibits responsible personal and social behavior that respects self and others.

SHAPE 5 - The physically literate individual recognizes the value of physical activity for health, enjoyment, challenge, self-expression and/or social interaction.

Common Core State Standards (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

College and Career Readiness Anchor Standards for Reading

The grades 6–12 standards on the following pages define what students should understand and be able to do by the end of each grade span. They correspond to the College and Career Readiness (CCR) anchor standards below by number. The CCR and grade-specific standards are necessary complements—the former providing broad standards, the latter providing additional specificity—that together define the skills and understandings that all students must demonstrate.

Course Requirements

Students will be expected to:

- Read and apply the text, Periodization Training for Sports, to all assignments.
- Review the course assignments from the course package and contact the instructor via phone or email to discuss any questions they may have about the materials or assignments.
- Complete the Analysis and Application Papers based on the Periodization Training for Sports textbook.
- Create a Periodization Training Program for a student athlete based on the information in the Periodization Training for Sports textbook and the course package.
- Implement the Periodization Training Program designed above for four weeks and write a brief reflection on the positive and negative aspects of the program.
- Interview an athletic coach about his/her current training program and ways he/she could enhance it with periodization training principles presented in this course.
- Create a classroom lesson plan or a workshop outline/script on Periodization Training using the textbook and the references provided within the course package. This assignment will be appropriate for the coach or teacher interested in presenting this information as part of a unit on conditioning or to his/her colleagues during an in-service opportunity.
- Complete all assignments within the allocated timeframe – one year from enrollment date.
- Submit all typed coursework in the organized format described within the Schedule of Topics and Assignments section.
- Keep a copy of their coursework in the event something gets lost or destroyed in the mail.
- Complete the designated assignments for either the B grade / Credit or A grade option.

Schedule of Topics, Assignments, and Activities

This section of the syllabus describes exactly what material the participant must cover and in what sequence. Assignments and activities are integrated with the topics to show the relationship between learning and practice within a standards-based learning environment.

- Analysis and Application Papers

The Analysis and Application Papers address the various chapters and issues covered in your Periodization Training for Sports text. Each paper will be 3 to 4 pages and include two sections: analysis (discussing the major points presented in the chapter) and application (applying the major points to a periodization program).

The Analysis and Application Papers are the primary mechanism by which you will provide evidence of the following: a) providing a written overview of each specific reading assignment, b) demonstrating the ability to apply the information presented via a written application to each chapter, c) integrating your experience with the course material, verifying that you have successfully completed the reading assignments.

- Periodization Training Program

To develop a working understanding of the principles and applications for periodization training. In addition, the coach or teacher will have the opportunity to develop an actual periodization training program that he/she can use with student athletes. The coach or teacher will also be encouraged to design the periodization training program to reflect any unique demands required for a specific sport.

- Training Program Reflection

Implement the Periodization Training Program you designed above for at least four (4) weeks. After four (4) weeks, write a brief reflection addressing positive and negative aspects of the program. This exercise is useful for evaluating your training program and gathering ideas that will make future programs successful. By taking a little time to reflect, you should objectively see principles that worked well and those that need modifications. In either case, you will develop greater appreciation for your conditioning program.

- Periodization Lesson Plan

Using the textbook and the references provided, create a classroom lesson plan or a workshop outline/script on periodization training. This assignment should be appropriate for the coach or teacher interested in presenting this information as part of a unit on conditioning or to his/her colleagues during an in-service opportunity.

This assignment will help the participant develop a general teaching strategy for a lesson that can be part of a unit/workshop on conditioning or strength training. A teaching strategy is a technique used by a teacher or coach to help a student or individual to understand a particular concept and/or develop and practice a specific life skill. The participant will create a teaching strategy that contains: 1) clever title for the lesson or workshop, 2) grade level or target audience, 3) the desired outcomes of the lesson or workshop, 4) the materials needed for the lesson or workshop, and 5) teaching steps or workshop outline. If possible, the participant should also include information on multicultural issues. All assignments will have an appendix that contains the teaching aids, overhead masters, handout master, etc. that are necessary for the teaching strategy. This assignment will allow the participant to use the information learned to design a meaningful lesson or workshop about periodization training programs.

- Coach's Interview

This assignment will help you gain a deeper understanding of another coach's perspective on periodization training programs by interviewing an active coach focusing on his/her current training program. You will develop a list of questions related to his/her current training program and interest in integrating some of the periodization training principles covered in this course into his/her current training program. Not all coaches believe that periodization training can improve athletic performance; some (even well educated) coaches believe that time would be better spent on skill development. Research has found that an effective periodization training program will significantly increase an athlete's performance (refer to your textbook and the bibliography in your course package).

Evidence of Learning

Evidence that the student achieved the course objective includes:

- Course instructor observed evidence of understanding of course objectives as demonstrated through student's analysis and reflective writing assignments.
- Course instructor observed evidence of understanding of course objectives as demonstrated through student's presentation of a periodization training program.
- Student demonstrated insightful thinking by analyzing the strengths and weaknesses of their periodization training program.
- Student demonstrated their understanding of appropriate hands-on methods of teaching through their lesson plan or workshop teaching experience.
- Student demonstrated a deeper understanding of periodization training programs by interviewing another coach and developing a reflective response.
- Student included the use of higher level thinking skills to make connections to professional coaching and teaching standards from SHAPE America.
- Student demonstrated how they might use professional coaching and teaching standards from SHAPE America in their future strategies, techniques, and course content.

Grading Policies for Assignments

Course participants have the option of requesting a letter grade (A-grade or B-grade) or a Credit / No Credit when submitting the online grade form. Students will submit their grade request when all coursework has been completed.

The participant's grade will be determined by the quality and number of assignments they choose to complete. Each assignment outlined in the course packet includes a rubric which clearly describes the expectations for the course assignment. The discernment between an A or a B grade is at the discretion of the instructor based on the quality of work submitted. Any assignment falling below the "B-grade" or "Credit-grade" quality (below 80%) threshold will be returned to the participant with further instructions.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Students with disabilities should contact the Academic Support Center to discuss academic and other needs as soon as they are diagnosed with a disability. Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made.
