Course Description

- Healthy relationships can enhance the quality of life within our students and communities. Mutual respect, trust, honest communication, and shared goals are all essential for any relationship to be safe and healthy. Participants will learn about self-awareness, keys for successful relationships, and how to avoid destructive relationships. This course will present techniques to help students develop the life skills they need for nurturing and supportive friendships. Techniques and tools shared in this course are based on the current literature and supported by national education standards.
- Course assignments encourage participants to integrate the course material with specific national standards for health education. Objectives for each lesson are modeled around standards-based learning as identified by SHAPE America. Evidence of learning is tied directly to stated objectives and is assessed via analysis and application papers, learning activities, action plans, lesson plans, reflective evaluations and peer learning. The course is designed for teachers, school counselors, school nurses, and administrators of 6th through 14th grade students.
- Note: Students are required to purchase the textbooks separately.

Standards to be Addressed in this Course

"Standards are an enduring commitment, not a passing fancy."

-California State Board of Education

National Health Education Standards by SHAPE America (<http://www.shapeamerica.org/standards/health/>)

The following content standards defined by SHAPE America specify what students should know and be able to do as result of a quality health education program. States and local school districts across the country use the national standards to develop or revise existing standards, frameworks and curricula. Participants are asked to apply these standards in their teaching practices and demonstrate them within their coursework.

SHAPE 1 - Students will comprehend concepts related to health promotion and disease prevention to enhance health.

SHAPE 2 - Students will analyze the influence of family, peers, culture, media, technology, and other factors on health behaviors.

SHAPE 3 - Students will demonstrate the ability to access valid information and products and services to enhance health.

- SHAPE 4 - Students will demonstrate the ability to use interpersonal communication skills to enhance health and avoid or reduce health risks.
- SHAPE 5 - Students will demonstrate the ability to use decision-making skills to enhance health.
- SHAPE 6 - Students will demonstrate the ability to use goal-setting skills to enhance health.
- SHAPE 7 - Students will demonstrate the ability to practice health-enhancing behaviors and avoid or reduce health risks.
- SHAPE 8 - Students will demonstrate the ability to advocate for personal, family, and community health.

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS) (www.nbpts.org)

NBPTS was created in 1987 after the Carnegie Forum on Education and the Economy's Task Force on Teaching as a Profession released A Nation Prepared: Teachers for the 21st Century. The five core propositions form the foundation and frame the rich amalgam of knowledge, skills, dispositions and beliefs that characterize National Board Certified Teachers (NBCTs). Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Teachers are members of learning communities

Common Core State Standards (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

College and Career Readiness Anchor Standards for Reading

The grades 6–12 standards on the following pages define what students should understand and be able to do by the end of each grade span. They correspond to the College and Career Readiness (CCR) anchor standards below by number. The CCR and grade-specific standards are necessary complements—the former providing broad standards, the latter providing additional specificity—that together define the skills and understandings that all students must demonstrate.

Key Ideas and Details

- Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.
- Determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.
- Analyze how and why individuals, events, or ideas develop and interact over the course of a text.

Craft and Structure

- Interpret words and phrases as they are used in a text, including determining technical, connotative, and figurative meanings, and analyze how specific word choices shape meaning or tone.
- Analyze the structure of texts, including how specific sentences, paragraphs, and larger portions of the text (e.g., a section, chapter, scene, or stanza) relate to each other and the whole.
- Assess how point of view or purpose shapes the content and style of a text.

Integration of Knowledge and Ideas

- Integrate and evaluate content presented in diverse formats and media, including visually and quantitatively, as well as in words.
- Delineate and evaluate the argument and specific claims in a text, including the validity of the reasoning as well as the relevance and sufficiency of the evidence.
- Analyze how two or more texts address similar themes or topics in order to build knowledge or to compare the approaches the authors take.
- Read and comprehend complex literary and informational texts independently and proficiently.

Continuing Education Program Student Learning Outcomes

Course Topics, Assignments and Assessments

Topics, Assignments and Activities

This section describes exactly what material the participant must cover and in what sequence. Assignments and activities are integrated with the topics to show the relationship between learning and practice within a standards-based learning environment.

- Module 1 - Analysis and Application Papers

The “Analysis and Application” papers address issues related to assessing, improving, and maintaining healthy relationships presented in the Healthy Relationships and Making Friends textbooks. Each paper will be 3 to 4 pages and include two sections: analysis (discussing the major points presented in the chapter) and application (applying the major points to your teaching and/or personal life). The Analysis and Application papers are the primary mechanism by which you will provide evidence of the following: a) You have read and understood the major points of each specific reading assignment, b) You can articulate the relationship between the reading assignments and national content standards in health education, and c) You are able to apply what you have learned in a practical way.

- Module 2 – Healthy Relationships Action Plan

Friendships and relationships have a big impact on the lives of our students. The choices they make influence their values, confidence, and self-esteem. This assignment will allow you to work with a student, colleague, friend, or family member and develop an action plan to help them promote the life skills they will need for healthy relationships throughout their life. The action plan will focus on the four components needed for a healthy relationship: a) shared trust, b) mutual respect, c) honest communication, and d) shared goals. This assignment will serve as a tool for you to put everything you learned from the course materials, course textbooks, course assignments, and independent research into practice.

- Module 3 – Healthy Relationships Lesson Plan

Using the course material, textbooks, references provided, or other research-based sources, create a classroom lesson plan or a workshop outline/script on healthy relationships. This assignment will be appropriate for the health education teacher interested in presenting this information as part of a unit on friendships/relationships or for the teacher of another discipline who is interested in ways to infuse this information into their current curriculum. This assignment can also be designed as a workshop for parents during community education or colleagues during an in-service opportunity. This assignment will allow the participant to use the information learned to design a meaningful lesson or workshop on relationships. All teaching strategies will reference associated health education standards and include appropriate teaching aids, technology tools, PowerPoint slides, Prezi slides, overhead masters, handout masters, multimedia tools, digital videos, references, resources, etc. that are necessary to maximize student engagement.

- Module 4 – Healthy Relationships Lesson Plan Reflection

Deliver the Healthy Relationships Lesson Plan or Workshop developed above. Write a brief reflection addressing what went well, areas that could be improved, and what you would do differently next time. Opportunities to promote healthy relationships and positive friendships are presented to us every day. The life skills your students learn from this lesson need to be practiced repeatedly so they can be carried out at anytime they are needed. Regular consistent practice of life skills will often lead to healthy habits at an unconscious level.

- Module 5 – Healthy Relationships Annotated Resources

It seems like you can hardly go anywhere without seeing or hearing messages about how you need to be better, smarter, or more beautiful with links to Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, or a website for more information. As an education professional, it is important that you serve as a resource of accurate and effective information. This assignment will help you compile a select list of useful books, journal articles, lesson plans, YouTube videos, websites, etc discussing healthy relationships. Your annotated resource list should include a summary/evaluation, strengths/weaknesses, and overall usefulness of each resource. Creating an annotated resource list is excellent preparation for a research project. Just collecting a list of resources is useful, but when you have to write annotations for each resource, you're forced to understand each source more carefully. You begin to review it more critically instead of just collecting information.

- Module 6 – Healthy Relationships Peer Interview

Interview another teacher, family member, or one of your student's parents focusing on his/her opinion around relationships and the role it plays in developing a student's mental, physical, and spiritual well-being. You will develop a list of questions that will address his/her current opinion and ways they feel we could promote healthy relationships in our students. This assignment will help you gain a deeper understanding of various perspectives on relationships. As you can imagine, there are a variety of opinions. Your responsibility will be to collect this information and provide a narrative analysis of your observation.

Evidence of Learning

Evidence that the student achieved the course objective includes:

- Course instructor observed evidence of understanding of course objectives as demonstrated through student's analysis and reflective writing assignments.
- Course instructor observed evidence of understanding of course objectives as demonstrated through student's presentation of learning activities.
- Student demonstrated insightful thinking by analyzing the strengths and weaknesses of their financial wellness action plan.
