Course Description

Step into the future of teaching with the hands-on course. Discover how easy-to-use AI tools can streamline your workflow and help you create engaging, standards-based, personalized curriculum using existing resources. AI teaching assistants designed by teachers for teachers offer a wide range of optimized tools that enable you to import text files, PDFs, images, websites, handwriting, and YouTube Videos, and to export curricular materials to enhance learning for students at different levels. Additionally, these tools can convert content into multiple formats, including presentations, guided notes, graphic organizers, scenarios, and role-plays, while integrating seamlessly with applications you already use, such as Google Docs, Forms, Slides, and Microsoft Word and PowerPoint.

You will learn strategies for generating effective prompts that harness large language models (LLMs) such as ChatGPT, Google Gemini, and Microsoft Copilot. Learning is delivered through hands-on activities, online resources, and video tutorials via Canvas. An entire module is dedicated to resources you can draw on as you delve into the course curriculum. Course materials are AI newcomer-friendly and include specific tools and grade-level application examples. Assignments include creating curricular materials you can take directly to your classroom. This is a standalone course within the AI Flash Innovative Course Series. Access to students is not necessary for successful course completion or mastery of the course objectives.

Note: There is no required book for this course.

Required Texts and Course Materials

Canvas: This course will be delivered totally online. Canvas is a web-based learning management system (LMS) that provides students access to online resources, documents, videos, assignments, quizzes, forums, etc. Canvas is easy to learn and has a user-friendly interface.

Online Resources: Relevant online resources that support the course content and encourage further investigation will be available throughout the course assignments. Active hyperlinks are used throughout the course and will direct users to the appropriate information when clicked. These include videos, podcasts, worksheets, online activities, journal articles, and other resources. All resources used in this course are free.

Course Dates

Self-paced; students must enroll during the 2-week registration window and complete the course and post all assignments within the 6 to 8-week course completion window. Students may not complete assignments in less than 1 week for a 1-unit course (1 week per unit) per university policy.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS)

(<http://www.nbpts.org/standards-five-core-propositions/>)

First published in 1989 and updated in 2016, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do articulates the National Board's Five Core Propositions for teaching. The Five Core Propositions - comparable to medicine's Hippocratic Oath — set forth the profession's vision for accomplished teaching. Together, the propositions form the basis of all National Board Standards and the foundation for National Board Certification. Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Proposition 1: Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Proposition 2: Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Proposition 3: Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities

Common Core State Standards (CCSS) (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

Instructor/Student Contact Information

Throughout the course participants will be communicating with the instructor and their classmates on a regular basis using asynchronous discussion forums. Students are provided with instructor contact information in the event they want to make email or phone contact. In addition, students are encouraged to email or phone the instructor at any time. Students will also receive feedback on the required assignments as they are submitted.

Forums

Participation is an important expectation of this course and all online courses. Online discussions promote reflection and analysis while allowing students to appreciate and evaluate positions that others express. While students may not be engaging with the same students throughout this course, they will be expected to offer comments, questions, and replies to the discussion question whenever possible. The faculty role in the discussion forum is that of an observer and facilitator.

Coursework Hours

Based on the Carnegie Unit standard, a unit of graduate credit measures academic credit based on the number of hours the student is engaged in learning. This includes all time spent on the course:

reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made. For more information and for downloadable forms, please go to <https://www.fresno.edu/departments/disability-access-education>.
