It also includes self-paced, engaging, and short bite-sized elearning content for all. Learners may earn graduate-level, semester credit for completing at least 15 hours of Alludo Learning activities and submitting required documentation. This FPU course supports a flexible learning environment for teacher and staff learners and roles to explore topics based on their needs. Register for the Individual Alludo Learning courses if your district NOT does have a license with Alludo Learning and you wish to take advantage of the micro-learning opportunity. (Register for the District Alludo Learning if your district has an Alludo license.)

Primary Learning Outcomes

- Learners self-select micro-learning activities from a broad selection of learning topics in the Alludo Learning program. Each micro-learning activity requires the learner to submit an evidence component to support the learning outcome.
- The outcomes vary by subject type but can include individual educator outcomes, skills gained, knowledge learned, and specific outcomes with students in the classroom.
- Self-accessible training ensures progress on key education initiatives, teacher professional growth, and student outcomes without overwhelming educators' already-heavy workloads.
