Course Description

AI-Powered Lessons and Activities is specifically designed to highlight how the revolutionary capabilities of artificial intelligence can fundamentally transform and streamline lesson planning processes and create dynamic, high-impact, differentiated lesson activities using teacher-friendly tools. Our primary goal is to empower K-14 educators across all content areas to effectively harness cutting-edge AI tools. Participants will gain the practical skills needed to design engaging, highly differentiated, and standards-aligned lessons with unprecedented levels of efficiency, creativity, and precision. The curriculum is structured to develop skills applicable to broader instructional design and curriculum development efforts.

Through a rich blend of instructional formats—including highly interactive, hands-on tasks, current readings on educational technology, and practical video tutorials—teachers will develop profound skills and deep knowledge. The immediate and significant benefit is a dramatic reduction in teacher planning time, which directly translates into enhanced instruction quality and greater focus on student interaction. A key component of this course is the emphasis on collaborative knowledge building. Teachers are encouraged to draw upon and analyze exemplary instructional materials produced by peers, contributing their own AI-generated resources and best practices to a collective educational knowledge base.

AI-Powered Lessons and Activities is a standalone course within a larger series dedicated to the ethical and practical application of artificial intelligence in educational settings. No prerequisite knowledge or prior enrollment in other courses in the series is required. Access to or interaction with students is not necessary for successful completion or mastery of the course objectives.

Self-paced; students must enroll during the 2-week registration window and complete the course and post all assignments within the 6 to 8-week course completion window. Students may not complete assignments in less than 1 week for a 1-unit course (1 week per unit) per university policy.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS)

(<http://www.nbpts.org/standards-five-core-propositions/>)

First published in 1989 and updated in 2016, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do articulates the National Board's Five Core Propositions for teaching. The Five Core Propositions - comparable to medicine's Hippocratic Oath — set forth the profession's vision for accomplished teaching. Together, the propositions form the basis of all National Board Standards and the foundation for National Board Certification. Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Proposition 1: Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Proposition 2: Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Proposition 3: Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities

Common Core State Standards (CCSS) (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

- A = 90-100% and B = 80-89%, (anything below 80% will not receive credit.)
- The discernment between an A or a B letter grade is at the discretion of the instructor based on the quality of work submitted (see course rubrics).
- Coursework falling below a B grade will be returned with further instructions.
- All assignments must be completed to receive a grade and are expected to reflect the quality that teacher-training institutions require of professional educators. If completed assignments do not meet this standard, students will be notified with further instructions from the instructor.

Grading Rubrics

Instructor/Student Contact Information

Throughout the course participants will be communicating with the instructor and their classmates on a regular basis using asynchronous discussion forums. Students are provided with instructor contact information in the event they want to make email or phone contact. In addition, students are encouraged to email or phone the instructor at any time. Students will also receive feedback on the required assignments as they are submitted.

Forums

Participation is an important expectation of this course and all online courses. Online discussions promote reflection and analysis while allowing students to appreciate and evaluate positions that others express. While students may not be engaging with the same students throughout this course, they will be expected to offer comments, questions, and replies to the discussion question whenever possible. The faculty role in the discussion forum is that of an observer and facilitator.

Coursework Hours

Based on the Carnegie Unit standard, a unit of graduate credit measures academic credit based on the number of hours the student is engaged in learning. This includes all time spent on the course: reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made. For more information and for downloadable forms, please go to <https://www.fresno.edu/departments/disability-access-education>.
