Course Description

Boston became the center of much patriot activity that moved England's American colonies toward revolution and independence. The American Revolution began in the Boston area, and was fed by the fervor of its citizens. Many of the most sacred sites of early American history are found in or near this remarkable city. This course will explore the ideas, events, and people of the Boston area that provided direction for the new American nation. Topics to be explored include the main causes of the American Revolution, reasons for the American victory despite nearly impossible odds, how events were perceived from both American and British perspectives, and the key roles played by the men and women of Boston. This course has travel and non-travel options. Assignments have been developed to align with Common Core State Standards for Literacy and Writing in History/Social Science.

Note: Required books and DVD must be acquired separately.

This includes all time spent on the course: reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made.
