Course Description

History of the Mother Lode is designed to help teachers become more knowledgeable about the history of California, enhance social science teaching skills, and learn to utilize technological applications in their social studies teaching. The course focuses on the people and events that made the Southern Mother Lode region in and around Mariposa, Agua Fria, Hornitos, and La Grange, such a significant part of California's rich history. Through oral history interviews and photo images, the course provides the bridge necessary for classroom teachers to better understand the role this region played in the settlement of the west and, more specifically, California.

The stories of ordinary and extraordinary people help describe and bring in "concepts of courage, justice, heroism, and leadership." Geographic and economic aspects of life during the Gold Rush are explored, including the arrival of immigrants and the impact they had on Native Americans and in forming characteristics of our contemporary society. Terminology, especially as related to "labor-intensive mining," placer mining equipment, and techniques are introduced. Historical sites where miners panned and hydraulic mined for gold, ecological ruins, dredge sites, museums, churches, cemeteries, and historical buildings are visited as a student watches the online videos about the Southern Mother Lode region.

Historical information is presented by docents, written materials, photographs, oral history, dramatizations, narratives, guided tours, and texts. Distinguished Californians who share a common love for California history and the Mother Lode contributed to the preparation of this course. Students are required to watch videos which discuss the historic points of interest in the Mother Lode. Students will read Mariposa County: Images of America, as well as other journal articles on topics related to the course. Students will complete assignments correlating to the videos and readings. Assignments will help students build resources they can use with their students.

Note: Required textbook must be acquired separately.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS)

(<http://www.nbpts.org/standards-five-core-propositions/>)

First published in 1989 and updated in 2016, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do articulates the National Board's Five Core Propositions for teaching. The Five Core Propositions - comparable to medicine's Hippocratic Oath — set forth the profession's vision for accomplished teaching. Together, the propositions form the basis of all National Board Standards and the foundation for National Board Certification. Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Proposition 1: Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Proposition 2: Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Proposition 3: Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities

Common Core State Standards (CCSS) (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

College and Career Readiness Anchor Standards define what students should understand and be able to do by the end of each grade span.

Common Core Language Arts Standards addressed in this course include:

- Reading for Literature (RL): K-8, 9-10, and 11-12
- Reading for Information (RI): K-8, 9-10, and 11-12
- Writing (W): K-8, 9-10, and 11-12
- Speaking and Listening (SL): K-8, 9-10, and 11-12
- English Language Arts Standards (L): K-8, 9-10, and 11-12

In addition, students are encouraged to email or phone the instructor at any time. Students will also receive feedback on the required assignments as they are submitted.

Discussion Forums

Participation is an important expectation of this course and all online courses. Online discussions promote reflection and analysis while allowing students to appreciate and evaluate positions that others express. While students may not be engaging with the same students throughout this course they will be expected to offer comments, questions, and replies to the discussion question whenever possible. The faculty role in the discussion forum is that of an observer and facilitator.

Coursework Hours

Based on the Carnegie Unit standard, a unit of graduate credit measures academic credit based on the number of hours the student is engaged in learning. This includes all time spent on the course: reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Students with disabilities should contact the Academic Support Center to discuss academic and other needs as soon as they are diagnosed with a disability. Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made.
